Before going back to bargaining table

Council awaiting return of city firemen

By PHIL LEWIS
Record-Herald City Editor

Washington C.H. City Council has decided to take a "wait and see" attitude toward an apparent sick-out being conducted by 10 of the city's 13 firefighters.

"Council does regret the illness of our firemen," Council Chairman Mrs. Bertha McCullough said Wednesday night following a 50-minute closed Council session at the Washington C.H. City Building.

"When conditions return to normal, we will resume discussions," she said. "We will wait till after the firemen have recovered sufficiently from their sudden illnesses."

Mrs. McCullough indicated that Council expected the firefighters to end their sick-out in "two or three days."

Sources close to the local firefighters union confirmed Council's expectations saying the sick-out will probably end Saturday, when the original shift which reported ill Wednesday morning is due back on the job.

The firefighters are reportedly waiting until all 10 union members have had a turn at being sick. It is an apparent effort to prevent reprisals from the city against just a few of the firefighters and to show that all the union members are upset with recent negotiations with the city.

Sources also indicated that once the firefighters return and no progress is made in negotiations further action will be taken. That action, it was warned, would last until some progress in negotiations was made.

The firemen have been upset over salaries and a recent change in fire department benefits including sick leave, holiday pay, and vacation time.

The special Council session was hastily called Wednesday morning when it became apparent that the local firefighters union was engaged in a work slowdown. Three of the four-member duty crew scheduled to work Wednesday's 24-hour shift left the fire department at 9:35 a.m. claiming they were sick. The fourth member of the crew, Fireman Jay Smith, had called in sick earlier and his illness is not believed to be connected with the present situation.

The special Council session began at 5:30 p.m. and was attended by local as well as Columbus news media. After 35 minutes of open discussion Council adjourned into closed executive session.

During the open part of the meeting, Council's personnel committee reviewed negotiations with the fire department's bargaining committee which occurred earlier in the day and apparently failed to resolve any problems.

Council member James Ward, who is chairman of the personnel committee, said the firefighters wanted to discuss a list of four requests.

The first request is for a salary increase which would place the firemen's salaries on the same scale as the city police department salaries. The police officers reportedly receive salaries that are two pay scales above that of the firemen.

The other three requests dealt with sick leave, holiday pay, and vacation time. The firefighters say they lost hundreds of dollars in benefits when City Council drafted a set of personnel rules and regulations earlier this summer.

Council says the change in benefits was made to equalize the city's policy toward all employees.

Both Ward and John Morris, the other Council member on the personnel committee, said they were surprised at the firemen's actions (the apparent sick-out) following the early morning meeting. They both felt progress was being made in negotiations.

"It was a congenial meeting," Morris said Wednesday night. "I thought we made progress."

"I felt this morning's meeting progressed and we got down to the nitty-gritty of pay increases," Ward said. He added that the firemen were asked to bring in written requests to City Council at its next meeting (Monday night) and let Council make a decision on the requests.

"In fact," Ward said, "we asked them to bring in two requests (one covering all four demands and one possibly accepting the salary increase in exchange for the three benefit demands)."

"I felt they could present the facts. And, Council (members) were big boys and they could make a decision," he added.

Ward and Morris were upset that the firemen did not notify them of their decision not to submit the requests to Council. The firefighters bargaining committee was reportedly supposed to poll the remaining firefighters and inform the personnel committee of the decision.

However, the firemen said they asked Ward and Morris to make a recommendation on the requests to City Council, but both refused.

"We did not say whether or not we would recommend it," Morris said. "There are things to check on. I told them I would need a week."

Li. Richard Reed told the Record-Herald that the committee "was pulling the same old routine," meaning they continued to put off making a decision on the firemen's requests.

However, Ward said he believed the firemen had already made up their minds to go on a sick-out before the Wednesday morning meeting was held.

"The thing that bothered me most was we were not notified of their decision. The local news media, the paper, was notified at a quarter to 10 (a.m. Wednesday) just a couple

SLOW NIGHT—The three members of the Washington C.H. Fire Department who are not participating in an apparent sick-out experienced a slow evening Wednesday when only one emergency call was made. That call came at approximately 5:30 p.m. Wednesday and did not involve a fire. It

Union president comments on situation

City's 'blue flu' outbreak spreads

By RICK WHAITE
Record-Herald Staff Writer

The apparent sick-out among members of the Washington C.H. firefighters union continued Thursday with three members of the four-man crew scheduled for duty reporting in sick.

The fire station is currently being manned by Chief Maynard L. (Joe) Denen, Assistant Chief John Rockhold and Fireman Pat Denen.

A sudden illness struck three firefighters, who are members of the local union, Wednesday morning a short time after a union negotiating team failed to reach a compromise over wage and benefit disputes with the City Council's personnel committee.

That illness struck three members of Thursday's 24-hour shift and is expected to spread to Friday's shift.

Fire Lt. Cecil D. Seaman, shift supervisor for Wednesday's shift and a member of the union negotiating team, said today, "I was sick yesterday. I had sick leave accumulated and I felt I wasn't mentally or physically capable to fight a fire."

In regard to the current dispute over firefighters wages and benefits with

City Council, Seaman said he has not been contacted by anyone from Council as of yet. He added that at the end of Wednesday morning's meeting with the personnel committee, the union representatives were willing to give up some of their demands for the pay increase and would recommend their members to accept that change if the personnel committee would recommend the same thing to the full Council.

About the negotiating sessions, Seaman said the committee has said they were going fine, "it's been going that way for six months and there's been nothing to indicate it wouldn't go that way for another three or four months."

He added that he hopes Council will be concerned enough about the situation to contact the firefighters once the illness has passed and the firefighters have returned to work. He did say the union members will hold a meeting to discuss the negotiations when they are able to go back on duty.

Firefighters have been demanding equal pay steps with the Washington C.H. Police Department and return of their vacation pay, sick leave and holiday compensatory pay, which they claim were effectively decreased last June when the City Council passed a wage and benefit increase designed to equalize those benefits for all city employees.

The lieutenant said a few years ago firefighters were asked to come in on their days off once a week for training sessions and told by Council if they did, they might get a pay raise. Seaman said the same proposal was presented by Council in return for a fire prevention program, but the raise has not come through.

The failure in negotiating is on the committee's part, not the firemen's part, he added.

"If we're going to make a commitment, we feel they (City Council) should make a commitment too," Seaman said.

Earmarks lottery money

School-aid plan would downplay property tax

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio lawmakers early next year will look into a school financing plan that could help bail out ailing school districts and considerably reduce local property taxes.

The plan would earmark 95 percent of the income tax and all lottery revenue for schools.

"I am convinced that Ohioans have had it with the present system of funding public education, which relies heavily on property taxes," Rep. John E. Johnson, D-Orrville, said Wednesday at a news conference announcing the proposal.

Johnson wants to limit property taxes collected for school operations to 15 mills, while adjusting income tax rates to put a heavier burden on those in high income brackets.

The Ohio Education Association, representing 85,000 teachers, reacted with cautious optimism to the sweeping plan.

"We need to know that it will produce the amount of money ascribed and that it will, on a continuing basis, reflect inflation," said OEA spokesman John Hall. "If it does, then we'd have to take a very hard look at it."

Majority Democratic legislative leaders were non-committal about the plan, but House Finance Chairman Myrl H. Shoemaker, D-Bourneville, is a co-sponsor, and that assures that it will receive hearings.

The Johnson plan, to be implemented in part by a constitutional amendment, would create a Basic Education Fund, fueled by the lottery, 95 percent of the income tax and corporate franchise tax, and some local property taxes.

The fund would assure each school district $1,700 per pupil in the 1979-80 school year, while generally reducing property taxes, according to Johnson.

Average current expenditures are $1,185 per pupil, the Wayne County lawmaker said, but 190 districts spend less than $900 per pupil and all big city districts, except Dayton, are under $1,500.

Johnson said Ohio's general fund, the source of revenue for most state needs, would lose no more than 4 percent or $150 million, as a result of the transfer of the income and corporate franchise taxes to the education fund.

He would eliminate the 10 percent property tax rollback, repeal tangible personal property taxes for all but utilities, and establish a system assuring that no one pays more than a fixed percentage of their income for real property taxes.

The real estate tax would be limited to 25 mills unless voters agreed to more. Ten mills of that total tax load would be distributed locally. The remainder would go to the state Basic Education Fund, with the exception of tax dollars collected on residential and agricultural property, which also

During city's 'blue flu' epidemic

Volunteers to continue normal fire response

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Editor

Washington C.H.'s volunteer firefighters have vowed to continue normal response to fires and other related incidents as an outbreak of "blue flu" continues to plague regular firemen.

Assistant Fire Chief John Rockhold said today the city's 17-member volunteer force has agreed not to assume any of the duties normally handled by the regular firefighters during the "sick-out" being staged by 10 of the 13 regulars.

The volunteers, according to Rockhold, are not planning to lodge overnight at the fire station.

"They're (the volunteer firemen) going to respond just like they always have," Rockhold said.

Following the initial "blue flu" outbreak Wednesday morning, City Manager George H. Shapter authorized fire department officials to employ the services of as many volunteer firefighters (on a paid basis) as needed to handle emergency situations.

"I have told them to use all the volunteer firefighters they can with pay," the city manager said Wednesday night.

Rockhold said the decision by the PLAN UNVEILED—Washington C.H. City Manager George Shapter holds up a map of the city which has been divided into seven sectors for patrolling by the Fayette County Disaster Services Agency in case the city fire department receives a rash of fire calls. The plan was drawn up by Raldon Smith, the local disaster services director, shortly after 10 of the city's 13 firemen began participating in an apparent "sick-out" Wednesday. The plan was one of a number of topics discussed at a special City Council meeting held Wednesday night.

would be spent locally, along with the remaining 5 percent of the state income tax.

Property taxes from industrial commercial and utility sources, then, would still go to schools after the first 10 mills collected.

Johnson has a long road ahead of him. He will attempt first to win legislative approval for placing the amendment on the November 1978 ballot, while at the same time pressing for a legislative package to accompany the ballot issue.

"When schools are closed for lack of money and are forced to operate perpetually in the shadow of such disaster, Ohio does not have a school system that is thorough and efficient," Johnson said.

"I am proposing a constitutional amendment and statutory legislation to secure such a system of education for every school child in this state. The package will be self-executing if the voters approve it."

Johnson's proposed income tax brackets range from 1 percent on income of up to $5,000, with a 1 percent increase for each additional $5,000 of income, up to 10 percent on earnings over $45,000.

"Ohio's rank in state per capita personal income tax collections for fiscal year 1975 was eighth from the lowest, and in state and local per capita property tax receipts for 1975, it is 23rd from the lowest," Johnson said.

Over Assad's opposition

Sadat still plans visit

Bulletin

JERUSALEM (AP) — President Anwar Sadat of Egypt will arrive in Israel Saturday night, Prime Minister Menahem Begin announced today.

"Work on behalf of peace does not require a trip to Israel," said the Syrian president.

The two leaders appeared grim as they walked side by side past an honor guard to Sadat's plane.

Despite the disagreement, a Syrian spokesman reported Wednesday night that Sadat and Assad were still agreed on their basic demands for peace with Israel.

The spokesman said they agreed to "coordinate their efforts for a just and lasting peace in the Middle East based on complete Israeli withdrawal to pre-June 1967 borders and recognition of the legitimate rights of the Palestinians."

Sadat flew to Damascus Wednesday to reassure Assad he would not make a separate deal in Jerusalem. One Arab diplomat suggested that the Egyptian told his host he was going to Israel "to change the Israeli mentality about Arab intentions, and to show the world who is serious about peace and who is not."

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram reported Wednesday that the purpose of the trip was to remove procedural obstacles to a new Geneva peace conference between Israel and all its Arab adversaries.

Sadat followed up his overtures that produced the Israeli invitation with a cable Wednesday to a leftist, peace-oriented symposium in Tel Aviv. In it, he expressed "the hope that your deliberations will prompt you to see the living reality of the Palestinian people and their inalienable right to statehood."

As Sadat and Assad met at the Syrian president's home, leaders of Assad's Baath Socialist Party gathered for a rally to celebrate his bloodless seizure of power seven years ago Wednesday. All speakers condemned individual peace-seeking moves but did not attack Sadat by name. Assad and Syria's press also have refrained from this.

Iran will seek hold on export oil price

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Shah of Iran, who earlier this week said his country would "remain silent" on the question of raising oil prices, now says the oil export cartel should "give a break" to consumer countries and forego any increase for at least a year.

The shah said President Carter talked him into changing his position from one of neutrality to openly opposing a price hike.

Volunteer stance

volunteers to not handle any duties of the regular firemen does not place any extra burden on the three non-union members left to man the fire department operations.

"It just means we'll be here for a while," Rockhold added.

MEANWHILE, city officials and the Fayette County Disaster Services Agency have developed a contingency plan to be implemented in the event of "a rash of fire reports."

Raldon M. Smith, director-coordinator of the Fayette County Disaster Services Agency, has devised the plan, dividing the city into seven different areas to be patrolled by agency members in private autos.

Smith said the disaster services agency is prepared to send up to eight "mobile units" on the road to check fire reports.

"We're here to help the city, just as we're here to help the county," the agency's director said.

Shapter said the plan was formulated "in case of a rash of fire reports. It has happened in some instances," he said, referring to strikes, walkouts and sick-outs in other cities. "And I would hope it doesn't happen here," he said.

Workers from the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. Wednesday night installed a system which automatically switches calls from the fire department to Washington C.H. Police Department dispatchers in the event the on-duty firemen are away from the N. Fayette Street headquarters investigating a report.

"It's (the telephone system) something we've thought about doing for a long time, and now seemed like a good time," Shapter said.

Shapter is confident the three non-union members, the city's volunteer force and the volunteers from the disaster services agency can provide adequate fire protection for Washington C.H. area residents during the action by the 10 union firefighters.

"I think we can adequately cover the situation for... let's say not on an extended basis," Shapter said.

Following an emergency session of City Council Wednesday night, Shapter commended the three fire department members who have remained on duty.

Manning the fire station are Fire Chief Maynard L. (Joe) Denen, Rockhold and Pat Denen, the chief's son, the only non-union members.

Stock prices head lower

NEW YORK (AP) —The stock market headed lower today as Wall Street awaited the latest Federal Reserve data on the money supply.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 3.99 to 833.07 in the first half hour.

Losers outpaced gainers by a 3-2 spread among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts noted some uneasy expectations that weekly data due from the Fed at the NYSE close would show an upswing in the money supply.

Such a development might be taken as a setback to recent hopes that the Fed would not feel the need to tighten credit any further in its efforts to limit monetary growth and restrain inflation.

White Motor led the active list, up 2 1/2 at 11 1/2. A former White Motor official said he hopes to make a tender offer for control of the company.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 5.72 to 837.06. Declines nosed out advances by a small margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume totaled 24.95 million shares against 27.74 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index lost .19 to 53.53.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .16 at 118.75.

minutes after the meeting and Channel 10 (WBNS in Columbus) was already on the way down here," Ward said. "In my mind, it (the apparent sick-out) was predetermined and had nothing to do with the negotiations."

After Ward's and Morris' review of the early morning meeting, it was decided to discuss alternatives to end the apparent sick-out in closed session.

Before Council went behind closed doors, City Manager George Shapter blasted the action of the firemen.

"We can't just tolerate employees walking off the job," he said adding that Gary Smith, the city law director, was present to discuss possible legal actions. Also on hand for the meeting were two (Nelson McCann and Jack Balahtsis) of the three newly elected Council members who will be seated in January.

After the 50-minute closed session, Mrs. McCullough made the brief statement to the news media indicating Council would not negotiate until firemen returned to their duty shifts.

"This sudden illness of the firemen would seem to be a pressure point," she said during the meeting. "And, this Council has never bent to pressure."

WANTED! WANTED! WANTED!

I would like to talk with other subscribers of the local Ohio Bell Telephone Company, who, like myself, are using the so called "combination service" or "off-premise extension", originally suggested and sold to me by this company.

In my case, all incoming calls ring in at my office and at my home. However, as of the first week in November, I can no longer ring in at my home by dialing from my office, or vice versa. I have been advised by local Ohio Bell executive personnel that the latter is no longer possible because of the removal of equipment which formerly performed that function. My alternative is to dial the operator and ask her to ring my home or my office, as the case may be. In this day of satellite communication and drastically decreased operator assistance, this is a sad commentary for a company connected with A.T.&T. and its many affiliates.

Fortunately, the Laws of the State of Ohio provide you with the opportunity to register a formal complaint resulting from an impairment of your service by a utility company serving you. Animal trap theft report investigated by deputies

A Leesburg area man reported the theft of 25 animal traps from a field near his home Wednesday.

Dennis Newbrey of Leesburg told Fayette County sheriff's deputies 24 Conibear traps and a box trap were stolen from a ditch along Stafford Road near Barger Road sometime between 5 p.m. Tuesday and 4 p.m. Wednesday.

The value of the traps, which were tagged with Newbrey's name and address, was not reported.

Sheriff's deputies also reported thefts of two mailboxes from residences along Greenfield-Sabina Road sometime between Tuesday night and early Wednesday morning.

Tom Hicks Jr., of 752 Greenfield-Sabina Road, and reported one theft. Ben Posey of 131 Greenfield-Sabina Road reported the other. Sheriff's deputies said Posey's mailbox was discovered undamaged along Greenfield-Sabina Road near Capps Road.

Washington C.H. police officers reported city property in the police station's rear radio room was damaged early Wednesday during the booking of a Sabina man.

According to the report, officers had to pin Berle A. Kendle Jr., 23, of Sabina, against the door to the room when he attempted to resist his arrest around 1:35 a.m. The door knob struck the wall paneling behind the door during the scuffle and broke the paneling.

Kendle was charged with resisting arrest.

At the time of the incident, he was being booked on charges of driving while intoxicated and driving while under suspension.

During a routine search of the suspect at the Washington C.H. police station after Ohio Highway Patrol officers arrested Kendle on the traffic violations, officers discovered a substance on his person which they suspected was marijuana.

According to another police department report, field tests of the substance revealed it was marijuana and Kendle was charged with possession.

He is currently being held in the Fayette County jail awaiting a hearing in Washington C.H. Municipal Court.

Firemen probe gas spill case

Washington C.H. firefighters removed a fire hazard from an E. Paint Street residence Wednesday.

Firemen were summoned about 5:39 p.m. when an unknown amount of gasoline leaked out of an automobile fuel tank. Floyd A. Pettit of 1125 E. Paint St. reported the incident.

The duty-crew, void of most of its regular duty firemen due to Wednesday morning's sick-out, used the department's new foam to remove the gas spill. The foam was tested in an actual situation recently when several hundred gallons of gasoline was spilled at the Standard Oil Co. bulk plant.

No damage was reported in Wednesday's incident.

Opinion And Comment

Ballot box secrecy

Widespread public outrage was aroused when a judge in Lansing, Mich., cited a young woman for contempt when she refused to say which candidate she had voted for in a contested mayoral election. Many felt that this unjustifiably eroded the principle of the secret ballot. We agree with that view.

Now a Court of Appeals has upheld the contempt citation on grounds that the defendant's vote was improperly cast. It seems that she and 19 other voters in the city election live at addresses outside the city limits. The appeals court maintains that though neither they nor city officials were aware of this at the time, the votes are invalid and must therefore be disclosed.

This is not mere sophistry; the ruling is based on a sound legal point. But in relying on that point the court has overridden another which many Americans would give higher priority - that is, the importance of preserving secrecy at the ballot box. It is gratifying that the case is now to be appealed to the Michigan Supreme Court for further consideration of this matter.

THESE DAYS...By John Chamberlain

It's a nickel-plated seasaw

Anthony Harrigan, speaking in Washington at a National Issues Seminar sponsored by the United States Industrial Council's Educational Foundation, of which he is executive vice president, raised a good point about our foreign policy. It is obvious, he said, that the American people don't want to be the new Romans.

Mr. Harrigan might wish it otherwise, for it is equally obvious that the Soviets are bent on building their own equivalent on the Roman Empire. But we don't have to be Romans to block the Soviets in their pretensions to world rule. We can look to our own strength in North America. If the Russians can be made to stumble short of their goal, they won't succeed in being the new Romans either. Who needs Romans anyway?

To take care of all contingencies we need to command the requisite raw materials. This means fighting the creation of foreign cartels. Just now Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau of Canada is threatening to put together a nickel cartel. The U.S. currently imports more than 70 percent of the nickel it uses in manufacturing, and 70 percent of this comes from Canada.

The Trudeau threat has stung Rep. John B. Breaux, D-La., into action. Breaux is chairman of the House Subcommittee on Oceanography. The U.S. is currently being asked to become a party to a new Law of the Sea Treaty which would keep American companies from mining the seabed. The Treaty would impose crippling financial burdens that no private company could accept. This, according to Breaux, would effectively deprive us of access to minerals that are necessary to our defense. The sea floor is rich in nodules that contain rare metals. One of these metals is nickel. If we could mine the available seabed nickel along with its accompanying manganese and cobalt, we wouldn't have to worry about a Canadian cartel.

Last summer Elliot Richardson, the chief U.S. negotiator at the United Nations Law of the Sea Conference in New York, refused American consent to a treaty that would have let the likes of Idi Amin dominate the disposition of ocean-borne valuables. Later Richardson told a joint hearing of the Senate Energy and Commerce committees that Congress should enact legislation allowing U.S. companies to mine the deep oceans without asking any by-your-leave from Third World nations that are unwilling or unable to put up the extensive capital needed for ocean ventures.

Four companies, Kennecott, Deep Sea Ventures, Lockheed and International Nickel, stand ready to bring manganese, cobalt, copper and nickel in the surface if they are guaranteed that there will be no subsequent Third World rip-off of any profits they may happen to make. What the companies want is an agreement that will permit them to undertake orderly research and development on a non-discriminatory basis. They are especially leery of politically imposed price and production controls. The Third World countries have asked for an international authority which would certainly impose such controls.

The four companies that are waiting for a go-ahead signal have already built new types of ships to carry out the drilling. Prospecting for nodule deposits has been going on for 10 years. We know where the manganese and the nickel may be found in profuse quantities that would effectively put an end to Trudeau's talk of a nickel cartel.

The four companies that are now pressing for enabling congressional legislation are, actually, international partnerships. Deep Sea Ventures is a combination of U.S. Steel and Union Miniere of Belgium. Kennecott has associated itself with Rio Tinto Zinc, Consolidated Gold Fields and British Petroleum of Britain, Noranda Mines of Canada and Mitsubishi of Japan. The Lockheed consortium includes Amoco Minerals and Shell Oil. International Nickel is allied with German and Japanese firms.

Could all of these companies combine to make a super-cartel? Hardly. For they represent metal users as well as metal salesmen. Nickel is used as a steel alloy, and why should U.S. Steel want to hurt the steel business?

The United Nations wants the United States to accept the Law of the Sea treaty as a single package that would include eliminating private participation in seabed mining after 25 years. It is clearly up to Congress to say, "no dice."

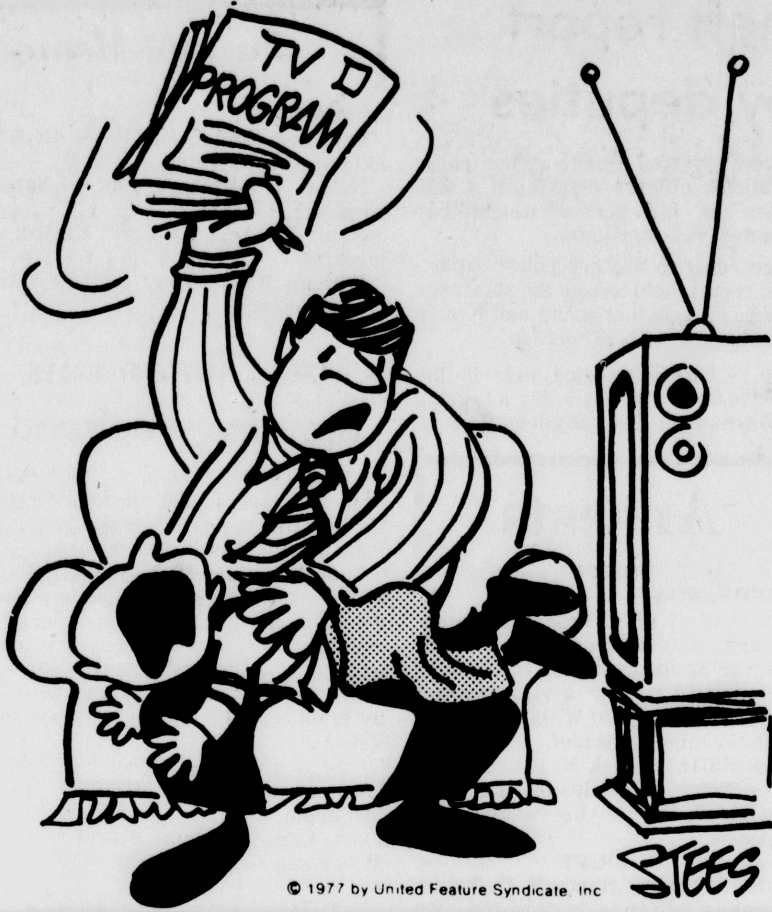

Arctic resources discussion slated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Scientists specializing in the arctic will discuss the development of arctic resources, including the proposed Alaskan-Canadian natural gas pipeline, during a two-day session at Ohio State University Dec. 20-21.

Highlights of the session include a panel discussion and a talk by Justice Thomas R. Berger of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, Vancouver, B.C.

Berger will discuss his experiences in preparing a report for the Canadian government on the proposed pipeline along the Mackenzie River.

The meeting at Fawcett Center for Tomorrow is sponsored by the Arctic Institute of North America, Calgary, Alberta and OSU's Institute of Polar Studies.

Mother assumes student's role as high schooler goes hunting

PICKERINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Marc Johnston, 17, skipped school Tuesday and went hunting with two friends, but it was OK.

Dick Ball, his principal at Pickerington Middle-Senior School, approved. In fact it was Ball's idea.

Marc's mother, Jean, sat in for him. Ball has 83 parents signed up to sit in one day this week for their children at the school. He calls it "Project SitIn."

"We want to get parents more involved in school," Ball said. "Open houses give them an artificial view because they take place while the kids are not normally in school."

"We just felt parents should see school occurring as it is."

Mrs. Johnston, 40, said it was fascinating.

"I didn't ride the bus but I drove to school in time for his 7:10 a.m. class," she said. She made notes on classroom discussions and on the next assignments in Marc's classes that included algebra, English, history, and Perspective on Death.

"There isn't much different than when I was in school," she said. "The main problem was with what I had forgotten."

"The most interesting class was the Perspective on Death. We talked about how people feel and think."

Glenda England, 35, appeared to concentrate more than the 17 teenagers with her in Robert Schlabach's algebra class. She has four children, two in high school.

"I'm very pleased with the idea," she said between algebra and English classes. "I get to see what they do in school, observe how they teach. I think it is a good idea for all parents."

Mrs. England graduated from high school and a business school in her native Oklahoma City, Okla., and said her biggest problem this day was a Spanish class.

"It's been so long and I've forgotten so much," she said. "Education is a lot different now. It's more advanced."

Ball read of the idea while in graduate school five years ago.

"I hope we are breaking down some barriers for education," he said. "I hope we accomplish bringing the moms and dads up to date on the curriculum."

"Algebra I, for example, is the same name as the algebra they had in high school but the content is different."

"A lot of the parents never heard of 'sets' of figures and the kids think it's so simple. But after this, those that come to school may know more of what their kids are talking about."

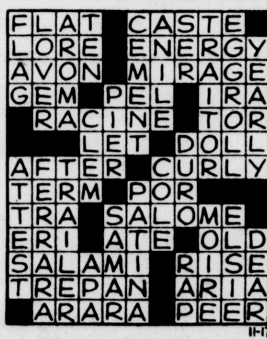

Kathy Robson, 16 and a junior, said her mother, Judy, would attend her classes later this week.

"But I'll have to stay at home and clean house for her," she said. "I'll have to cook breakfast for my dad and brother and get them off to school and work."

"Mom will get the idea of what goes on at school. She'll know how easy it is to get in trouble if you're late for a class."

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Thinks she might be a grandmother

DEAR ABBY: I'm still in shock from a telephone call I just received from a young woman informing me that I had an 18-month-old granddaughter! I was speechless. My only child is a 25-year-old college graduate. He's not married, not living at home, and he works 600 miles away. I see him only three times a year.

I phoned him and told him about the disturbing call I had just received. He calmly said, "It's possible." Then he told me he doesn't see the girl anymore, he's never seen the baby, and he has no plans to.

The baby's mother says she is 25 and still loves my son, but they decided a marriage wouldn't work out.

Abby, can I be a grandmother if my son accepts no responsibility for this child? The young mother invited me to visit her and see the baby.

Will I complicate matters if I go?

STILL IN SHOCK
DEAR STILL: First, get together with your son and find out why he is treating the matter so casually. From what he says, he may not even be the baby's father. Once his legal and moral obligation in this situation have been established, you can decide what role you want to assume if any.

DEAR ABBY: You were too quick to agree with a RIPPED OFF, who complained because a co-worker had bought a purse for a fellow worker as a gift from the office gang, and claimed it cost $21. RIPPED OFF later learned that the purse had been marked $16.98!

Consider these figures, Abby:
$16.98 . . . purse
1.02 . . . 6 per cent sales tax
2.00 . . . fancy gift wrap
1.00 . . . gift card
Total . . . $21.00

This doesn't include the time spent shopping or the cost of transportation. And the poor woman probably skipped her lunch to boot.

This should serve as a warning to others who shop for a group: Get receipts for everything!

NO RIPP OFF
DEAR NO: You're right. I shot from the hip on that one. Rip off my epaulets and demote me to buck private.

DEAR ABBY: My heart aches today for my 14-year-old daughter who went to a school dance last evening and wasn't asked to dance one dance.

When her older brother was her age, and popular with the crowd, I always encouraged him to ask the no-so-popular girls to dance, impressing upon him how much it could mean to a girl who might not otherwise receive one invitation to dance during the entire evening.

I was proud that he followed my advice. I wish other mothers would tell their sons the same thing. Will you help spread the word, Abby? It could mean so much to the girls.

ACHING MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: You bet I will. An ounce of thoughtfulness can ease a ton of heartache.

Kurfess Comments

By Charles F. Kurfess, Ohio House Minority Leader

MUST GOVERNMENT BE SELF-SERVING?

For many and varied reasons, government touches every person in many aspects of his or her life. Government is something we participate in only if we're interested, and obviously, many people make a special effort to avoid politics.

But politics and government are intertwined. They are part of the same thing — the political process: the process by which public policy is made and the direction of our nation, state and communities is determined.

Too many people active in politics think that politics ends with an election. And too many people think government starts the day after election.

But that's just not the way it is. The public policy decisions by government are often determined during political campaigns by the election of candidates and what they stand for.

How individuals perceive government is very important. Government is not a "them" and "us" situation, even though many may take the attitude on occasion, "Look what government has done to me again."

We ought to be determined to make government become what we want it to be. I have often found government to be much too self-serving. In discussing proposed programs and legislation, I have often found legislators most interested in questions such as:

How does this proposal affect a particular administrative agency or department? Who's going to control it? What special interest groups are for or against it? What's the effect on my political party, or perhaps myself politically?

Certainly not enough thought is usually given to what ought to be the first basic question: Does this proposal serve a need, and how does it affect average citizens, those who do not have lobbyists representing them at the Legislature?

Some time ago I cut a ribbon at the opening of a retail store. As I did so, I thought about the stark contrast between how people look upon the private sector and how they look upon government. A retail establishment is probably one of the most competitive businesses around. And I observed to those new customers waiting for the grand opening that they were going to go into that store and shop in a competitive sense. They would be interested in price and quality. They were going to want to get their money's worth. And if for some reason they were dissatisfied, they would be back to let the management know and demand satisfaction.

How often people seek or expect something from a governmental agency without asking, what is it going to cost? Is it going to be worth the price?

Government provides services in a non-competitive setting. But perhaps citizens should look upon government more like they look upon providers in the competitive business world. And perhaps more importantly, we in government ought to look upon citizens, our constituents, as if they were consumers, and remember they have every right to expect good service at the lowest possible cost.

If government is going to do a better job in the future of serving the entire community interest, it will only happen because those who enter politics, and those we elect to office, are going to recognize government for what it is — a service agency, and start practicing the politics of service, not the politics of self-aggrandizement.

Ohio Perspective

Vote law clarification eyed

By TOM DIEMER
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted W. Brown will offer legislation next January to clarify Ohio's voter registration law, which was altered drastically by passage of Issue 1 last week.

Repeal of instant registration left a few unanswered questions about procedures, particularly with regard to the new requirement for a purge every four years of registration rolls.

Under the new amendment to the Ohio Constitution, voters must cast their ballot at least once every four years or be dropped from the rolls.

The instant registration law had no voting requirement for maintaining the franchise, but up until this year, a vote at least once every two years was the standard for continuing registration.

The question now is, when does the four years start — anytime in 1977, retroactive to Nov. 8, or on Dec. 8, when the amendment actually becomes part of the constitution?

"It will be our position that the four years means four calendar years," said Assistant Secretary of State James Marsh. That means a vote anytime in 1977 would satisfy the requirement, including a vote on Nov. 8 following an instant registration.

The secretary of state's bill will propose that local boards of election mail postcards to voters about to be purged from the rolls. This practice was followed under the two-year renewal plan, but was dropped with the advent of permanent registration.

The legislation will also address the sensitive issue of the voting rights of the mentally ill.

Brown believes probate judges should make a specific court determination as to whether a mentally ill person is competent to vote, rather than just rule on their overall competency.

The secretary of state is also preparing a separate bill to broaden the existing state "dirty tricks" law so that it applies to campaigns involving constitutional issues, as well as to candidates.

"This legislation should clearly be amended to include all campaigns to prevent the type of misleading and erroneous information that has been spread over Ohio's air waves," Brown said, without naming the offenders.

Television spots for and against Issue 1 and those on both sides of defeated Issue 2 to ban leghold animal traps created considerable controversy during the closing weeks of the campaign.

Movement opens to unite U.S. farmers for strike

A call to unite and strike has gone out to the traditionally independent American farmer — and there is evidence he is listening.

The appeal comes from American Agriculture, a group of disgruntled farmers in Colorado who say they are tired of selling their milo, wheat and corn for less than it costs to produce.

"We're working for one common goal — 100 percent of parity for all products that we produce," said Dale Schroder, a spokesman for the fledgling group. "We ask for no subsidies; we're willing to take our chances with the elements. But we want a contract from the government as to how much any individual farmer is expected to produce," he said.

The movement to unite farmers appears to be spreading. Farmers in Washington, Nebraska, Kansas and Georgia have staged marches and "tractorcades" to call attention to their plight.

"We're getting really strong in about 30 states," said Schroder. "And I think we'll have a really good turnout on this thing. I feel we're going to come out of this with support like you wouldn't believe."

American Agriculture has named Dec. 14 as strike day. Farmers have been asked to withhold all produce from the market and to boycott all but essential goods after that date.

"We're not going to buy a damned thing," Schroder said. "We consume 40 percent of the steel made in the United States. If it goes to the 14th, this thing is going to shake this nation to the core."

Parity, the issue on which the strikers have focused, is a term to describe a "fair" price for farm products in relation to the farmer's cost of living. Farm prices in mid-October were just under 65 percent of parity for most products.

Stores note sales boost

CINCINNATI (AP) — Federated Department Stores Inc. reported its best third quarter in history, a 27.5 percent increase in earnings on a sales increase of 11.4 percent.

"Solid gains in sales and net income were made by both the department store and mass merchandising units," said Ralph Lazarus, chairman of the Cincinnati-based department and discount store chain.

The firm also reported an increase of 14.7 percent earnings and a 10.4 percent in sales for the nine month period.

Third quarter sales totaled $1.18 billion with earnings of $45.4 million or 94 cents per share. This compares with the same period last year of sales of $1.05 billion, earnings of $35.6 million or 74 cents per share.

House Demos hope for remap approval

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — With 1978 growing ever closer, House Democrats hoped to win approval today of a less ambitious but still politically explosive congressional redistricting bill.

The scaled down plan attempts to capture one Democratic seat in Columbus and solidify an existing Democratic-held post in Cincinnati.

In the process four districts would be redrawn, but unlike the original Senate-approved bill, Ohio's remaining 19 congressional districts would not be substantially altered.

The toned down plan did not satisfy Republicans on Wednesday, as they voted solidly against the bill when it popped out of the Governmental Affairs Committee 10-7 after lying dormant for more than two months.

With a veto by Gov. James A. Rhodes a near certainty, and a 90-day waiting period for enactment if the veto is overridden, majority Democratic leaders must move the bill this month to be sure it will take effect before the March 23 congressional filing date.

"The public has had no time to react," complained House Minority Whip Alan E. Norris, R-Westerville. "This thing has all been orchestrated behind closed doors."

In Hamilton County, the new congressional map would resemble a doughnut with Democratic Rep. Thomas A. Luken's 2nd District comprising the city of Cincinnati, while a suburban 1st District would be conceded to Republican Rep. Willis D. Gradison Jr.

Another Republican, Rep. Samuel L. Devine, who would have been moved out of his 12th district in Franklin County, could stay at home in the revised plan that adds his suburban Bexley-Whitehall neighborhood.

But Devine would still have to run in a district with a 54 percent Democrat majority, according to state Rep. James A. Baumann, D-Columbus, a congressional hopeful who authored the amendment.

By leaving Devine's home in the 12th District, Baumann said the bill avoided "blatant gerrymandering."

WINTER BLOOMERS

4-H'ers can start their flower garden projects early by tricking their flower bulbs into blooming months ahead of schedule, with the help of the refrigerator.

Strategy is simple. Just refrigerate the bulbs to make them think it's winter. . . when you take them out they'll think it's spring. And you'll have a window sill full of flowers in the dead of winter. Tulips, Hyacinths and Narcissus, including Daffodils, are some of the popular varieties suited for indoors. Choose a container twice as high as wide, with a bottom hole for drainage. Bulbs look best planted densely, so you can plant about four hyacinths or six tulips in a six inch pot. Since plant nutrients are stored inside the bulbs, rich soil isn't essential. Try a packaged potting mix.

To plant the bulbs, first cover the containers drainage hole with a piece of clay pottery or gravel. Add some potting mix and gently set bulbs on top, duplicate tips level with pot rim. Cover bulbs with potting mix until tips are barely visible. Water thoroughly, let drain and label each container with bulb name and planting date.

Store your newly planted bulbs in refrigerator or a dark, cool place 35 to 48 degrees. Cover containers loosely with plastic wrap or foil to prevent drying. Hyacinths and tulips need at least 12 weeks storage time, daffodils 15 weeks or more. Keep soil moist but not soggy. When sprouts are at least three inches high move plants to a semi-dark, warmer area for one or two weeks 55 to 60 degrees. Water as necessary. Finally, give bulbs sunlight and room temperature (65 to 70) degrees for about one month, when they'll begin blooming. To prolong bloom life, keep bulbs away from heat and hot sun. When blooms fade, pinch off seed pods but leave foliage. One season indoors is about all bulbs can take. But if you transfer them to your garden, they may go on blooming for many years to come.

Joint study set

Amended bingo law returned to House

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State senators have returned to the House a heavily amended bill revising Ohio's charitable bingo law, and the action promises to lead to a joint conference committee study.

House sponsors who sat in on the four-hour debate — twice as long as Senate debate on the multi-billion dollar state budget — said almost immediately they probably will demand that the bill be sent to a conference committee.

Before voting 30-3 to return to measure, senators disagreed on the merits of more than a dozen floor amendments, most of them seeking to permit more organizations to sponsor games.

They also had doubts whether the overall thrust of the legislation will be, as intended, to thwart operations of professional gamblers who have run bingo and other games of chance under the guise of being charitable groups.

Sen. Robert E. O'Shaughnessy, D-Columbus, the floor sponsor, asserted the amendments open up the law too much and demanded that his name be removed from the bill.

Rep. J. Leonard Camera, D-Lorain, who sponsored it in the House, expressed a similar view and indicated he will ask that it be sent to a joint conference committee to iron out differences.

On two different occasions during the debate, the bill barely survived motions to re-refer it to the judiciary committee for further study. Each motion lost 17-16.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's an odd thing about "The Waltons," that gentle clan of the Virginia hills. If you don't watch the show much, you tend to think they're still in the Depression era.

But last week's episode had them pausing to hear the war news from Europe, had one Walton boy home from National Guard training and another wishing he could become a Royal Air Force fighter pilot.

And tonight, a family crisis occurs when Grandpa Walton invites Army units on maneuvers to bivouac on his land.

In short, that distant war in Europe is coming closer and closer for members of the durable CBS family series created by Earl Hamner, who grew up in the rural town of Schuyler, Va.

Last season, he says, the series combined the years 1937-38 "because we'd just about used up every aspect of the Depression and we didn't want to start repeating things."

"And since the Depression always had been the villain, we felt we needed a new villain in the form of World War II, which would be especially threatening to a family with that many (four) boys."

As most viewers know, Richard

Thomas, who played the oldest son, John-Boy, left the series after last season. But he still is mentioned by the family in various episodes this year, Hamner says.

At last report, John-Boy was in New York, working for The Associated Press, of all things, and writing his second novel.

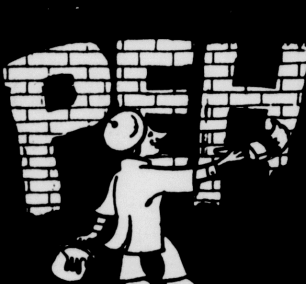

Hamner, 54, whose hit series is based on his memories of growing up in rural Virginia, says he's keeping this season's shows in a period just before the start of the draft for American men in 1940.

"This is because we don't want to lose any of the remaining boys quite yet," he said. "And when they're drafted, we'll work the stories around them when they're home on leave."

If "The Waltons" is renewed for a seventh season, it would then deal with the Pearl Harbor attack and America's entry into the war.

But Hamner says the focus will remain on the family, on the impact of the war on the Waltons who stay home in Virginia, and won't directly follow the young Walton men through military service.

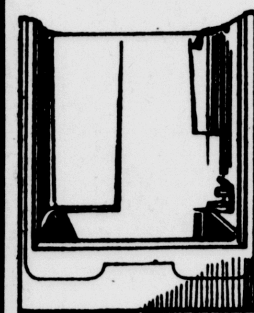

"No, we won't do that," he said. "I think the reason people like this show is the family unit, the strength they sense in this family in that particular place."

State road crews brace for winter

Nelms said DOT's emergency center, which coordinated snow-removal operations by the Ohio National Guard, county highway departments, townships, contractors and DOT crews statewide last winter, is ready for instant mobilization. More contracts have been signed with "stand-by" contractors should a severe snow hit and additional help be needed.

Several other mishaps probed

Area woman struck by car, injured in home driveway

An area woman was injured when she was struck by a car in the driveway of her home along Ohio 753 just south of Bogus Road Wednesday.

Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported 21-year-old Rita J. Vandergriff, 4127 Ohio 753, suffered injuries when she was struck by a skidding car about 10:35 a.m. She was taken to Fayette County Memorial Hospital in a private vehicle. Hospital officials said the woman was treated for multiple abrasions and later released.

According to the sheriff's department report, Melvin J. Copas, 37, of Greenfield, was towing a trailer along Ohio 753 and started a turn into the Vandergriff driveway. A pickup truck struck the trailer in the rear causing Copas' car to spin around and skid off the road striking the woman and crashing into a fence post.

Ms. Vandergriff was reportedly standing in the driveway when the collision occurred.

The truck driver was William E. Barton, 30, of Lyndon. Sheriff's deputies cited Barton for failure to maintain an assured clear distance.

A Gallipolis driver, John K. Allen, 66, was injured Wednesday evening when his car struck a semi tractor-trailer rig on U.S. 35 at I-71, sheriff's deputies reported.

A Fayette County Life Squad unit took Allen to Fayette Memorial where he was reportedly treated for multiple lacerations and released.

Robert L. McClendon, 38, of Bossier City, La., had slowed his semi rig under the I-71 overpass to turn left when Allen struck the vehicle in the rear about 6:05 p.m. Allen was cited for driving while intoxicated.

Three cars were involved in an accident around noon Wednesday on Main Street near a service station in Jeffersonville, according to another sheriff's report.

Roderick W. Chrisman, 22, of Jeffersonville, pulled from a driveway off Main Street striking a southbound car. The impact drove the vehicle into a parked car causing moderate damage to the struck vehicle and slight damage to the parked car, the report stated.

The other car was driven by Marvin R. Bender, 55, of Dayton. The parked vehicle belonged to Russell N. Garringer, 60, of Jeffersonville.

Chrisman was reportedly cited for failure to yield.

A local man was cited by sheriff's deputies Wednesday after he lost control of his van along Old U.S. 35 just west of Yeoman Road and overturned in a field.

Michael R. Coder, 1254 Rawlings St., traveled backward 75 feet off the left side of Old U.S. 35 after losing control of his van sometime before 11 p.m. The vehicle rolled over in a field, but Coder escaped uninjured. He was cited for failure to drive on the right half of the road.

A Columbus man, Randy E. Cutlip,

21, was cited by sheriff's deputies for driving left of center after his car ran off the left side of Bogus Road south of U.S. 35 late Wednesday and struck a fence.

Sheriff's deputies stated Cutlip failed to negotiate a right curve in the road and damaged four rods of wire fence. He was not injured.

Two cars collided on Washington Avenue at Elm Street Wednesday causing moderate damage to both, according to a Washington C.H. Police Department report.

Police officers cited Ronald D. Houseman, 19, of 702 Rose Ave., after he rear-ended a pick-up truck, which was stopped at the traffic light about 12:40 p.m. No injuries were reported.

Police officers also reported Terry L. Simmons, 23, 402 Clyburn Ave., escaped injury Wednesday when he lost control of his motorcycle on N. North Street at Western Avenue and struck the front tire of an oncoming car.

Simmons, who was cited for driving without a valid driver's license, was driving behind another car when it slowed to turn onto Western Avenue around 1:54 p.m. He lost control of the cycle which fell and slid left of center striking an oncoming vehicle.

The oncoming car, driven by Vernon L. Alexander, 82, of Rt. 4 Bloomingburg-New Holland Road, sustained only slight damage as did the motorcycle.

Attorney post conflict aired

CLEVELAND (AP) — A conflict over appointment of a new U.S. attorney for northern Ohio — a post that has been vacant for six months — came into the open Wednesday, when U.S. Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, criticized supporters of lawyer Carl J. Character for the job.

Glenn supports Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court Judge George W. White, 46, for the job, while U.S. Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, and U.S. Rep. Louis Stokes, D-21, are supporting Character.

Glenn criticized Stokes and other leaders of the black community for insisting that they have a right to name the candidate for the $43,500-a-year job. Glenn said Character's supporters told him at a recent meeting that he had no choice, that "I have to accept Carl Character or nobody."

Glenn said it was his best judgment that White was "best qualified and not just a political choice."

Stokes called Glenn's views a "slap in the face at the black community." He said Glenn lacks understanding of black leadership and "how that leadership has to be respected."

Showers and thundershowers moved through Ohio during the night, dropping from 1.38 inches in Cincinnati to .17 inches in Chesapeake.

Patchy fog settled in over most of Ohio by daybreak and some dense fog caused poor visibilities in central Ohio.

Mild November temperatures ranged in the 40s through the night.

There was a chance of showers for most of Ohio today as cold, unstable air moved into the state.

Three groups donate communications equipment

Hospital, life squad linked via radio

Through the contributions of three local non-profit organizations, the Fayette County Memorial Hospital emergency room staff now has a direct, two-way communications linkup between the Fayette County Life Squad headquarters and the life squad's emergency vehicle.

The equipment was donated to the hospital's emergency room by the Washington C.H. Eagles Lodge No. 423 auxiliary, the auxiliary at Fayette County Memorial Hospital and the Burnett-Ducey Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4964 auxiliary.

In the near future, the emergency room staff will also have the same communications capabilities with the Washington C.H. Police Department and the Fayette County Sheriff's Department where the necessary equipment is installed or the present equipment made operational in each of the two law enforcement agency headquarters.

The radio system could also connect the local hospital with other area hospital emergency rooms in central and southern Ohio, which could become extremely important in the event of a disruption in normal public telephone services.

When the life squad has been dispatched to transport a victim to the emergency room of Fayette County Memorial Hospital, the emergency medical technicians, after evaluating the victim, relay to the emergency room staff all pertinent information regarding the patient and the approximate time of the vehicle's arrival at the emergency room. The nurse responding from the emergency room may then request any further information believed necessary.

Ultimately, officials said this will enable emergency room personnel to begin treatment almost immediately once the patient arrives.

EQUIPMENT DONATION — Registered Nurse Nancy Black, seated, the head nurse in Fayette County Memorial Hospital's emergency room, prepares to accept new communications equipment donated by three area organizations to link the hospital with the county life squad. Presenting the equipment are Mary Ellen Asche, a hospital registered nurse; Sharon Anthony, Eagles auxiliary president; Darlene Crummy, hospital auxiliary president, and Mary Lou Conley, past president of the Burnett-Ducey VFW Post auxiliary.

Wet weather set for U.S.

By The Associated Press

Long cold fronts on opposite sides of the continent threatened continued wet weather for wide areas of the nation today, with Montana and Idaho bracing for a major snow storm.

Heaviest accumulations were expected in the western mountains of Montana, with temperatures expected to drop into the teens in some parts.

A Rocky Mountain cold front contributing to the Idaho weather dropped temperatures into the 30s on the eastern Plains, bringing light snow to scattered areas of Colorado. More snow, somewhat heavier, is expected over the weekend.

Wetter weather was good news in southern California, where firefighters contained a forest fire after a three day battle. They attributed their success, in part, to the weather which became warmer and more humid today. The blaze, near Malibu, about 30 miles west of downtown Los Angeles, consumed more than 1,300 acres before the weather took its turn.

Rain with snow over the mountains and cooler temperatures was expected to cover the Pacific Northwest today.

The other cold front, out of the eastern Great Lakes, and a warm, moist southerly flow of air ahead of it are helping keep temperatures mild in the southeast while spreading thunderstorms over a wide area. Scattered patchy fog was expected across Georgia today.

Northern Alabama was hit with a line of thundershowers early today. Brief periods of heavy rain and periods of strong winds were forecast for most of the day in an area, including Tuscaloosa and Birmingham.

West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky, sprinkled with rain on Wednesday, may see some snow flurries before the weekend because of the cold front. Most of the rain in the area Wednesday fell mostly on the mountains.

Judging the judge

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — Utah's vexatious Judge Willis W. Ritter, who has become a pain in the federal judiciary, may be in difficulty over his payroll practices.

The Justice Dept. was all set to lay the payroll charges before a grand jury last August but held off at the last minute. The department's Public Integrity Section, meanwhile, is keeping the controversial judge under "active investigation."

The 78-year-old Ritter is a roly-poly, white-haired gentleman with a round, red face. Blinking through glasses, he has the look of a beardless St. Nicholas who, however, is not at all jolly. On the bench, he scowls and perspires, dabbing his face with Kleenex.

He bullies attorneys, jails innocent bystanders and frees convicts at the drop of a Kleenex. Once he locked up a reporter briefly, without explanation, for picking his nose in court, so the bailiff later explained. Another time, Ritter cited two dozen postal workers for contempt because their mail-sorting machinery disturbed his courtroom.

He has been under constant fire for his judicial idiosyncracies. But the U.S. Attorney's office in Utah zeroed in on specific allegations that he had granted wrongful favors to his personal secretary and that he had also favored lawyers who represented him in private litigation.

Sources familiar with the payroll case say that Ritter allegedly authorized his secretary, Vickie Jolley, to continue drawing pay for four months in 1974 and another two months in 1975 when she did no work.

According to confidential Justice Dept. papers, the FBI "scheduled simultaneous interviews of (several) persons for the evening of Monday, August 22, 1977." Among other things, the agents were supposed to seek "the whereabouts and contents of Jolley's leave and payroll records" and "Jolley's relationship with Judge Ritter."

The Justice Dept. was prepared even to subpoena the judge's own files since the crucial records "would almost certainly be kept in the judge's chambers." A confidential document, dated August 10, mentioned "the possibility that fraud may have occurred" in the payroll case.

Unaccountably, the Justice Dept. canceled the grand jury but went ahead with some of the interviews. We have obtained the secret list of witnesses and questioned most of them.

They told us that Vickie Jolley "is gone most of the time" and that she does "extracurricular things for the judge." Added one court employee: "The judge is a mean man, better to the criminals than to the people who work here."

The judge's secretary told us she was unaware of any investigation into payroll abuses. When we tried to pin her down, she said, "I have no comment" and hung up the phone. Judge Ritter refused to return our calls. In the past, he has boasted: "I am an old hand at telling the press where to go."

He has also complained that he is a victim of "malicious Mormonism," although it was a Mormon, the late Sen. Elbert Thomas, D-Utah, who recommended him for the federal bench in 1949. Another Mormon, Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, is now leading the fight to remove him from the bench.

Not long ago, the cantankerous Ritter strode into a Salt Lake City shop and spotted Garn's picture on the wall. Sternly, the judge ordered the proprietor to remove the picture.

Security Problem: The lowest bid on a new Coast Guard cutter has been submitted by Finnish ship-building firm called Wartsila. This has alarmed Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., who asked the Navy whether any classified equipment would be installed aboard the cutter.

Back came a private dispatch from Acting Navy Secretary R. James Woolsey, acknowledging that the Navy would provide secret equipment for the Coast Guard ships. He conceded that Finish workers repair Soviet ships and that "highly capable Soviet technicians are present in Finland."

Therefore, he concluded: "The U.S. Navy considers that it is highly unlikely that any precaution exercised by the U.S. Coast Guard or the Finnish authorities would adequately protect Navy classified information."

Footnote: A Coast Guard spokesman told us the decision on the contract will be made before the end of the year.

Playing With Matches: Each year, more than 4,000 children are burned to death and another 10,000 injured playing with matches. Now a New Hampshire inventor has developed a safer matchbook, yet the Consumer Product Safety Commission has treated it with massive indifference.

Inventor Robert Giglio's child-resistant matchbook works simply. The chemical igniter is placed in a narrower, almost invisible band across the bottom of the front covers. Children would be frustrated by a dummy striker on the backside.

Yet curiously, the agency, which is supposed to protect the public from dangerous products, has virtually ignored Giglio's matchbook. A commission attorney told us that the inventor submitted his matchbook idea "too late" for its consideration. The commission, meanwhile, has scrapped plans for a child-resistant matchbook.

Parents, not television, blamed for poor eating habits of kids

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — A Bowling Green University professor has a suggestion for parents who complain their kids are seduced by television commercials for sugar coated cereals:

"Why not teach parents how to prepare more nutritional breakfasts?" asks Dr. Maurice Mandell, author of "Advertising." Mandell says parents, not television, should be blamed for children's eating habits.

"Parents are responsible for the welfare of their children," Mandell said in a recent interview. "I'm getting pretty exasperated with social reformers who blame ills on all instead of those closest to the problem."

"If they (children) are watching Saturday morning television with a bowl of sugarcoated cereal in front of them, it's because their parents are still in bed, maybe with a hangover, and the TV has become a babysitter."

Although the public generally views advertising as being manipulative, Mandell said it can't make consumers buy what they don't want.

Lobbyists who want to curb cereal commercials on television aimed at youngsters are using advertising as the scapegoat, he said.

Advocates for banning the ads claim the commercials lead children to eat too much sugar. Mandell, who said nutritionists disagree over the effects of sugar, said manufacturers "make what people want and they advertise sugar-coated cereals because children naturally want something sweet."

He said the advertiser will promote within the legal confines whatever is easiest to promote, and in the case of many cereals, that is sweetness of taste.

"Certainly one can be critical of advertising, but to say all advertising is bad because some advertisements are bad, is like saying that all doctors are bad because some are quacks, or that all lawyers are bad because some are ambulance chasers."

Eliminating all television advertising would be at the expense of consumers, Mandell said. He said even though cigarette ads were banned from television, tobacco companies have increased their advertising in newspapers and magazines which children can read.

Mandell said warnings about possible negative effects of products containing sugar would be a gross misuse of the law because almost any product can cause ill effects when improperly used or abused.

Woman charged in road death

SOUTH CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Police have charged Violet Romaca, 59, of St. Albans with negligent homicide in connection with the traffic death of an Ohio man.

The woman drove in the wrong lane of Interstate-64 from Milton to South Charleston — about 25 miles — before her car collided with a vehicle driven by Randy Lee Kloh, 30, of McConnelsville, according to Roger Crawford, South Charleston police chief.

Seven Ohioans set for honors

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Seven Ohioans will be honored by the American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio for their efforts to preserve and extend constitutional rights.

The seven to be honored at an awards dinner Friday, Dec. 2, are: State Rep. Arthur V. Brooks, D-Cleveland Heights; Cincinnati attorney Allen Brown; Shirley Johnson of Oberlin, an Ohio ACLU founder; C. Lyonel Jones, director of the Cleveland Legal Aid Society; Columbus Citizen-Journal reporter Sam Perdue; Maggie Quinn, Cincinnati feminist lawyer; and Cleveland attorney and former state legislator Ralph Rudd.

The light side

HOUSTON (AP) — Harry Caldwell thought it was tough being chief of the Houston Police Department until he faced 180 kindergarten and first grade pupils at Briargate Elementary School.

Caldwell said he agreed to wear his spiffy chief's uniform — traditionally worn only at ceremonies — and was feeling pretty important when the children began grilling him.

The first few questions were mild. Had he ever shot anyone? Do policewomen have to go to school?

Then came the zinger. "How come you ain't found my bicycle?" asked one pupil.

"He just didn't understand my manpower shortage," said Caldwell.

Miami overwhelming choice in MAC

PERRYSBURG, Ohio (AP) — Darrell Hedric puts little stock in his Miami team being picked to win the Mid-American Conference basketball title.

"You have to do it on the floor. You don't do it in this press room here," said the Miami coach amidst the annual league basketball meetings Wednesday.

Told his team was an overwhelming favorite to win—66 of 81 newsmen voted for the Redskins—Hedric grinned and said:

"I never bring it up with my players. We get ready to play one game at a time."

Miami polled 803 total points to 711 for runnerup Toledo and 641 for third-place Central Michigan, which shared last year's conference title with the Redskins. Toledo had 13 first place votes and Central Michigan two.

Ball State, even though it's led by the only new head coach in the league, Steve Yoder, was picked for fourth with 573 points. Ohio University completed the first division with 392 points.

Western Michigan collected 341 points, followed by Northern Illinois with 313, Kent State 284, Bowling Green 204 and Eastern Michigan 193.

Hedric knows why his team is such an overwhelming favorite. It's based on last year's performance, 20-6 overall and 13-3, the same as Central Michigan in the MAC, and the fact he has four regulars back.

"But you don't know about the freshmen and junior college transfers at the other schools," he said.

Hedric can call on 12 lettermen, most of any conference rival. Among them are these regulars, 6-foot-7 Bernard Newman, 6-6 Randy Ayers, 6-5 all-league Archie Aldridge and 6-2 John Shoemaker.

"I'm not concerned with starters as much as you are," said Hedric. "Who starts isn't a big deal. A bigger deal is who finishes, when it gets finger-crossing time."

Bobby Nichols has been a player or coach in the conference for more than two decades. His great reputation may be the main reason the Rockets are picked for second, plus three returning regulars.

Nichols' top scorer back, 6-5 Ted Williams, is just shaking a case of mononucleosis.

"Defense is a critical area with the people (Dave Speicher and Jeff Seemann) we lost," said Nichols, "but we should be better offensively."

Central Michigan, even with the losses of standouts Ben Poquette and Leonard Drake, ranks high because of its coach, Dick Parfitt, and some great guard talent, led by Dave Grauer and Val Bracey.

"I don't think I've ever coached a team with this many talented guards," said Parfitt, "but the guards don't decide the issue in the Mid-American. Anybody that beats Miami will be doing the rest of us a favor."

Beside his guards, Parfitt can count on 6-7 forward-center Jeff Tropf, who was good enough to start as a freshman at Michigan State.

Ball State drew support because of its five returning starters, plus a bone-crunching 6-6 freshman from Chicago, Clement Murrell, and the attitude of its new coach.

"Murrell is the type of ball player the Ball State program has needed. He's an enforcer and he plays to exhaustion," said Yoder, an assistant under resigned Jim Holstein last winter.

"I'm not interested in being competitive. I'm interested in winning the championship," said Yoder.

Ohio University moves into contention because, as Coach Dale Bandy puts it, "our seventh man in playing time last year is now fighting for the 12th spot on the traveling squad. We have better physical strength this year."

Western Michigan pins its hopes to team play, coupled with holdover regulars 6-10 Marc Thropf, 6-4 Rod Curry and 6-4 Mike Reardon. "We'll have to get points and rebounds from a lot of people," said Coach Dick Shiltz.

John McDougal, the MAC's Coach of the Year last winter, lost the league's best player, Matt Hicks. He does have Matt's brother, 6-6 sophomore Ron Hicks, and two holdover regulars, 6-8 John Harris and Paul Dawkins.

Colorful Rex Hughes launches his third Kent State season with what he calls his most intelligent team and one of the league's premier players, 6-7 guard Burrell McGhee. "He should be considered for All-American," said Hughes.

Bowling Green went 9-18 last year and only two regulars, 6-10 Ron Hammye and 6-2 Don Schumaker, return. "With Tommy Harris, we were the only team in the United States who worked the ball out for a shot," said John Weinert, the Falcons' Mentor.

Eastern Michigan, under former pro center Ray Scott, has only returning starters in 6-5 Kenny Harmon and 6-1 Bill Weaver. The Hurons will pin their hopes to seven transfers, four of whom may start.

NBA roundup

By The Associated Press
The Indiana Pacers unexpectedly won a basketball game and unexpectedly lost a player Wednesday night.

While Indiana, the last-place team in the Midwest Division of the National Basketball Association, was upsetting Portland's defending league champions, 111-104, fiery guard John Williamson became upset and walked out on the Pacers.

Williamson, eighth in the NBA in scoring this season with a 23.8 average, disappeared during halftime after collecting only four points in 17 minutes in the first two periods.

"I have no comment on John Williamson," a stunned Indiana Coach Bob Leonard said after the game. "I'm going to keep it strictly a team matter and won't have any public comment about the situation now. After we practice Thursday, I'll have something to say."

Asked if Williamson would be at practice, Leonard replied, "I don't know."

While Williamson was vanishing into the night, the Pacers' offense and defense were shining brightly.

Dan Roundfield came off the bench and led Indiana with a career-high 29 points. Adrian Dantley scored 26 and Ricky Sobers contributed 21.

Meanwhile, the Pacers held Portland to nine points below its season's average in handing the Trail Blazers only their third loss in 13 games.

"We beat the world champs," Leonard said on a more cheery note after Indiana's first victory ever over the Trail Blazers. "It gives us a thrill."

Reserve Larry Steele paced Portland with 21 points and Bill Walton scored 20.

In other NBA games, the Boston Celtics routed the Atlanta Hawks 131-105, the Philadelphia 76ers downed the Seattle SuperSonics 101-96, the Buffalo Braves topped the Houston Rockets 101-97, and the Milwaukee Bucks beat the New Jersey Nets 116-106.

76ers 101, Sonics 96
Julius Erving's 28 points helped the surging 76ers win their sixth game in seven outings since Billy Cunningham replaced Gene Shue as coach.

Meet the Team slated at WCH

The Washington C.H. Blue Lion basketball "Meet the Team" will be Saturday, Nov. 19 beginning at 5:30 p.m. All cage teams — from the varsity to the seventh grade — will be in action as will the cheerleaders of the various teams. Admission at the WSHS gym will be a bar of soap.

Three team race in SCOL basketball

It seems a little strange not preparing for a football game tomorrow night. But, then again, football's 10 week stay is over and it is time for basketball once again.

Miami Trace has barely had enough time to find space in their trophy case for another gold football and winter is rapidly coming upon us. For those of you who either don't remember or would like to forget, last year's basketball season was stretched until the beginning of March.

Fittingly for Fayette County fans, Miami Trace and Washington C.H. were the final two SCOL teams in tournament competition. It doesn't seem that long ago that the Panthers lost to Cambridge and the Blue Lions dropped their third straight district opener to Nelsonville-York.

Of course, last year's winners of the gold basketball was Wilmington under rookie head coach Jim Staley. The Hurricane put together a 14-game winning streak during the season and survived a late rush by the upstart Lions.

Following Wilmington's 12-0 mark and Washington's 10-2 mark, the league was well balanced from Circleville to Greenfield McClain. The way we see it this season is not the same.

As you may or may not recall, we picked Miami Trace to win the league last season, Wilmington to finish second and Washington C.H. to end up fifth. Needless to say, the pre-season predictions left much to be desired.

Nevertheless, we see the league as a three-team race this season and the other five teams as also-rans. Also, we will try to do a little better than in football this season when we finished 33-16-3 or 66 percent. First a brief rundown of the teams:

Miami Trace returns a bevy of players including Art Schlichter, Bill Hanners, David Glass and Tom Richardson in addition to some promising members of the reserve team such as John Persinger and Scott Grooms.

Missing for this year's team will be graduated seniors Dan Gifford (top rebounder and year ago), super sub Joe Black and junior Glen Cobb who has elected not to come out this season.

Rookie head coach Ron Hall — previously of Adena — is one of three new head coaches in the SCOL this fall and he could bring the Panthers together for a shot at the crown.

Staley at Wilmington returns one of the better athletes around in the person of Gary Williams at center. Also back for another year will be forward David Nared and forward Bob Williams.

Sorely missed will be point guard and field general Steve Williams and high-scoring forward Tony Berlin.

Washington C.H. returns all-SCOL captain John Denen, who was also southeastern district player of the year. Also returning will be high jumping Terry Wilson and two promising reserves from last year in Steve Pritchett and Tom Bath.

However, the Lions lost the better part of their team as Tom Dean, Dee Hart Foster and Mark Burke have graduated. Gary Shaffer returns for his ninth year at the Blue Lion helm.

Things are looking bad in Greenfield. Head coach Sam Snyder suffered with a poor season last year and he lost his two best players, Eric Dunson and Chuck Cole.

He will have to make do with the remainder of the varsity squad and a reserve team that won only four games last season.

Hillsboro is also faced with a rebuilding year. Gone are high-scoring Tim Fuller, Gary Larimer, Randy Sanders and Gary Coffman from the starting five. Rookie head coach Bill Newland — one of the better coaches in the area — is faced with filling their shoes.

Reserve coach a year ago, Dennis Stewart steps into the head coaching job at Circleville looking at more empty lockers. Gone are steady performers Brent Wright and Frank Merrill. However, all-leaguer Toren Bensonhaver will return as will spot starter Roy Huffer.

Madison Plains is in the same trouble as the others. Gone are 6-5 center Gary Self, high scoring Doug Sifrit, both guards Tom Wittich and Herb Bowshier and forward Pete Sullivan. Head coach Steve Stewart is faced with filling all five strating roles on varsity.

Teays Valley is faced with yet another rebuilding year. Veteran coach Bob Hoover is faced with replacing several players from last year's 7-11 team.

All this adds up to a three-team race as we see it. Wilmington and Washington C.H., based on their performance last season, and Miami Trace, based on their personnel and new coach, should fight it out for the top spot.

Before we get to the actual predictions, let us also state that there will be no gold basketball in the league this season. The top three will knock one another off at least once and a league record of 12-2 will probably be enough to win the crown.

And now for the picks:
1. Wilmington; 2. Washington C.H.; 3. Miami Trace; 4. Circleville; 5. Teays Valley; 6. Hillsboro; 7. Madison Plains; 8. Greenfield McClain.

By MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Editor
COLUMBUS, Ohio — Centerville and Urbana are on long winning streaks. Canal Winchester posted 20 straight high school football victories a couple of years ago.

Woodsfield went unbeaten in 1976, yet did not qualify for the Ohio High School Athletic Association's postseason playoffs.

Neither did Sullivan Black River, the Class A poll champion this season.

Such was the case with Washington C.H. Miami Trace, second in the Class AAA poll to Cincinnati Moeller and first in the state in scoring with 606 points.

Still not good enough for a post-season berth.

It's hard to explain to fans and players of those teams. Their administrators and coaches know the reason.

Weakness of schedules, often tied to league alignments, is why. Playoffs are out of the question.

"You can't play a patsy and get in the playoffs," said George Bates, the OHSAA commissioner.

"The second level points are where you hit the jackpot," said Bates.

He was talking about an intricate system that determines the semifinalists each season.

Margins of victory mean nothing. A team gets three points for beating or tying a Class AAA opponent, two points against a Class AA foe and one against a Class A rival.

A team then picks up all of the points its beaten or tied rivals scored during a season. That's the second level Bates has in mind.

Black River, a Medina County team, plays in the Firelands Conference. "We had a good, strong club, but our league wasn't that tough," said David Jones, the school's athletic director.

"There ought to be a different way of conducting the playoffs," said Jones, "but we sure don't have the solution."

Class AAA Centerville, 29-1 last three seasons without a playoff berth, is locked into the 10-team Western Ohio League.

Unfortunately, the Elks are in the same region as Cincinnati Moeller, the qualifier for those same years and playoff champion in 1975 and 1976.

Centerville's only salvation is scheduling the best non-conference opponent they can find for a 10th game. The next two years it is Cincinnati Princeton, a very good Class AAA team.

Chris Somerlot, a Centerville assistant coach, believes a referendum going to a state principals' vote later this year may offer a solution. It calls for moving the start of the football season up before Labor Day.

"That would open the door for regional finals or state quarter finals," said Somerlot. Centerville, as runnerup in 1976 and 1977, would have qualified for the playoffs if there were quarterfinals.

Class AA Urbana, on a 21-game winning skein, faces a similar fate. The Hillclimbers play in the eight-team Central Buckeye Conference. They must play natural rival St. Paris Graham as one non-conference opponent.

"We can't leave the league," said Urbana Athletic Director Bill Borland. "It creates stability for our entire program. We develop ties, rivalries. Fans know where the other schools are."

John "Butch" Rossi of Middletown Fenwick couldn't be happier. His powerful Class A team plays in the eight-team Mid-Miami League. Five members are Class AAA and two more are Class AA.

"We couldn't ask for a better setup," said Rossi. "If we beat the right combination of teams, we're going to be in the playoffs every season."

Rossi is another athletic director who favors quarter finals or playoffs for each of the state's 12 regions.

Massillon, winner of more mythical state titles than any Ohio school, is benefitting from the playoff system.

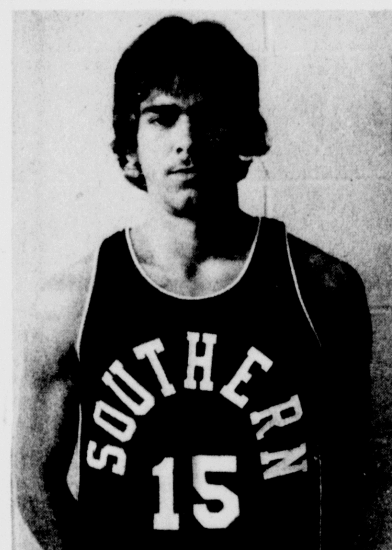

"Teams before the playoffs began didn't want to play Massillon," said Mike Currence, the Tigers' athletic director-football coach. "Now it's easier to schedule good teams. They want to play us."

The reasons are apparent. Massillon's schedule ranks as one of the state's toughest each season and the Tigers win their share of the games. So an opponent is guaranteed a bundle of points if it beats Massillon.

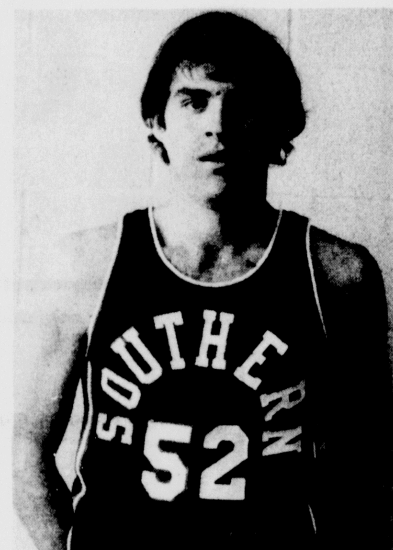

Miami Trace is in the same boat. Winner of its last 24 games and unbeaten in 35 games in a row, the Panthers play in the South Central Ohio League with just one other Class AAA team and six Class AA schools.

Included on their schedule was London Madison Plains (owner of a 19-game losing streak) and four other schools that had losing records this season. They did, however, get some points by scheduling Lancaster and beating them 34-6 but didn't receive much from other non-league opponents, Delaware Hayes and Jackson.

The end result? If you want to get into the playoffs, you've got to play — and beat — the best teams in the state.

RANDY JAMISON

DOUG PHILLIPS

Former Blue Lions playing at SSC

The Southern State Patriots open their 1977-78 varsity basketball season tonight in a home opener against the Clark Tech Titans of Springfield. The titans return five lettermen from last year's team that defeated the Pats, 82-80.

The game will be played in the Hillsboro High School gym and begins at 7:30 p.m. The SSC South Campus jayvee team will oppose Portsmouth Business College in the 6 p.m. preliminary.

Starting for the Patriots will be former Washington C.H. star Doug Phillips. The 6-3 forward, a 1976 Blue Lion graduate, figures heavily in coach Bob Jacoby's plans for this season.

Also, 1976 Washington Senior High graduate Randy Jamison is playing an important role on the junior varsity squad.

CAMERA Angles

AP Newsfeatures

The current appearance of 1978 calendars is a sure sign that Christmas and New Year's Day are coming up fast. As for camera fans, there is a fine assortment of photographic calendars to choose from, either for gift giving or for personal enjoyment.

Photographer Sherry Suris has compiled, designed and published as a personal venture two new calendars which assure a month-by-month, year-long exposure to fine art photography. One, "PHOTOGRAPHY — 12 Master Images — 1978," provides visual inspiration by a dozen contemporary photography artists. They include: Henri Cartier-Bresson, W. Eugene Smith, Wynn Bullock, Imogen Cunningham, Andre Kertesz, Jacques Henri Lartigue, Josef Sudek, Ralph Steiner, Minor White, George Tice and Shelley Burden.

Second, "WOMEN — Images by 12 Women Photographers," shows how noted female photographers view other women. They include: Eve Arnold, Lilo Raymond, Eva Rubinstein, Sonja Bullat, Dena, Abigail Heyman, Helen Levitt, Mary Ellen Mark, Holly Maxson, Barbara Morgan, Suzanne Opton and the publisher, Sherry Suris.

Both calendars are printed for fine photographic reproduction on quality coated stock with lettering and titles in distinctive calligraphy. They are spiral bound, measure 12 1/4 by 9 1/4 inches, and are designed for either wall hanging or desk decoration. The calendar boxes are roomy enough for daily notations, reminders and appointments.

Aware of collectors and their pursuit of photographic, Miss Suris adds a first in calendar publishing: a special, limited, signed edition of 100 copies of each calendar. In these, individual photographic pages are autographed by the living photographers.

The calendars ($5.95) are available nationally from many major photographic galleries and from the national chain of Brentano and Rizzoli book stores. For information about the signed, limited editions, write: SherArt Images, 60 E. 12 St., New York, N.Y. 10003.

Another calendar of historic photographs, several of them dating back to the 1850s, is entitled "The Photographer's Calendar — 1978." It has been compiled and designed by Li-liane De Cock and published by Morgan & Morgan, Dobbs Ferry, N.Y. 10522. ($4.95).

Fourteen photographs are included in this wall-hanging calendar, selected from the collections of the Library of Congress, George Eastman House, W.D. Morgan, the State Historical Society of Colorado and Barbara Morgan. The photographers represented are: Gertrude Kasebier, Walker Evans, Frederick H. Evans, William H. Jackson, David Octavius Hill, Russell Lee, Laura Gilpin, Robert Howlett, J.C.H. Grabill, Doris Ulmann, John Vachon, Charles Currier and Barbara Morgan.

Subjects range from a pre-1850 study of "The Sisters" by Hill to Walker Evans' study of a photographer's studio window in 1936; and from Jackson's cover photo of his assistant guiding their equipment-laden mule along a mountain ledge to Grabill's panoramic view of a Sioux Indian encampment in South Dakota in 1891.

Along with nostalgic photos, "The Photographer's Calendar" includes information and birthdays of historical interest in photography. Distribution of the calendar is through camera stores, book and gift shops.

"Photographing America Desk Calendar — 1978" is a handy household appointment-calendar book to keep track of daily commitments for next year interspersed with beautiful photographs and helpful photo tips. Bound in hard cover and measuring 8 1/2 by 11 inches, it's a Kodak publication.

The format of the calendar year is week by week in full pages. About 100 color photos in a wide variety of subject matter illustrate the weekly calendar pages, effectively demonstrating top-notch picture taking. The photographs were all previously published in "Photographing America," a hard cover book distributed last year by Kodak and Crown Publications. The photos often provide a peg for photo suggestions and information.

LOG CABIN FIRM
NORTH FORK, Calif. (AP) — Using old tools and methods, a small company here offers to build you the log cabin of your dreams.

With long-handled bark spuds, trimming adzes and axes, and bowing to modern technology long enough to accept the chainsaw, employees of the company, an offshoot of a wilderness survival school, will furnish a prospective homeowner with a log cabin of any size and shape.

John Somerville, an ex-Marine and head of both the company and school, said the work is done predominantly by hand because to date they have found no better way. Selected trees are cut and the logs hauled to the location where they are peeled, dried and then hand-notched. When in place, each must be carefully trimmed to fit its neighbor.

COLLEGE COSTS

MEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Without use of a computer, Tim Manners, Tufts University sophomore, has calculated the cost of his education, and decided it isn't exactly cheap.

"This year I've attended classes 12 hours a week for 28 weeks, or a total of 336 hours," Manners said. "It cost me $5,879. Simple division tells me that amounts to $17.49 an hour. I guess I should think twice before I ever again cut a class."

Next fall, with costs going up, each class will cost $18.98.

Rhodes fails to make re-election announcement

Only one thing missing at fund-raiser

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Re-election backers of third-term Gov. James A. Rhodes have raised at least $400,000 for a 1978 campaign war chest at a gala fund-raiser devoid of just one thing — his formal announcement as a candidate.

However, the 68-year-old Rhodes left little doubt Wednesday night before a glittering overflow crowd in the Lausche Building at the state fairgrounds that he's off and running.

Nearly 3,000 persons spent $100 apiece to sip fruit punch and nibble cookies with the governor, as well as with some notable entertainers who included the new Miss America, Susan Perkins of Middletown, and Cincinnati television talk show host Bob Braun, with his cast of singers. About 1,000 others bought tickets but didn't attend.

Humor was added during an hour-long musical program when five normally dignified Rhodes cabinet members joined curvaceous Coleen Sharp of the Braun entourage for a soft shoe routine and some slightly off key warbling.

But it was Rhodes' night, and his throng of admirers stood to give him a long ovation as he appeared on stage and then decided to drop to his feet a prepared speech which he said "just didn't come from the heart."

Instead, the nation's oldest governor gave a speech that outlined Ohio's problems, and he asked for prayers to help him find solutions. He dwelled particularly on the plight of the state's unemployed steel workers and said he feared bleak Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays for them unless "someone helps them find a job."

At one point, the governor came close to apologizing for not making a campaign announcement, and said "I love being governor... I love to do things for people." But he said "I think getting jobs for people is more important than the Democratic and Republican parties combined."

Rhodes said that while some may have anticipated an announcement, "we're not going to make up our minds until about Feb. 15 — that week. I want to be governor and I don't want to be held down by unnecessary political activity between now and Feb. 15. We hope that you will help us between now and then by helping us do all that we can for the unemployed of this state."

Former Ohio Republican Chairman Kent B. McGough of Lima acted as master of ceremonies for the 2½-hour "testimonial snack," as one observer called it. He announced that while only about 3,000 attended, "we expect we will have more than $400,000 after we have counted the money and get it to the bank."

Martin A. Janis, director of aging, joined natural resources Director Robert Teater and others for the soft shoe dancing, with Rhodes chuckling beneath the footlights.

Even a handful of Democrats appeared, including Reps. George D. Tablack, D-Campbell, and Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese, D-Cleveland.

Barge industry attacks Baker

CINCINNATI (AP) — Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., drew fire from the inland barge industry Wednesday by saying it was time to end free use of the nation's waterways.

"We can't afford it anymore," Baker told a news conference. He said he not only favors a fuel tax but he also believes in a users tax on cargo to pay for river improvement projects.

"We have a highway fund and we have an airport fund. It's time we had a river fund. We can't continue to take the money out of the treasury," Baker said. He said he agreed with the 1 percent user tax on cargoes proposed by Sen. John Domenici, R-N.M.

"I can't understand why he favors it," said Betty G. Justice, assistant to the president of the Ohio Valley Improvement Association which represents not only the barge industry but utilities, steel and other industries along the Ohio, Mississippi and tributary rivers.

"He's from a state that has a vital interest in water transportation. Not only will people have to pay for river transportation through income tax but in the consumer line as well. Those taxes are going to be passed along to the customers."

Miss Justice noted that the OVIA had already gone on record in favor of paying a 4-6 cent-a-gallon diesel fuel tax but opposes further taxes they said would add $350 million a year in taxes.

Baker said he did not believe the tax would come out of Congress before 1979.

Baker predicted a "donnybrook" in the primaries which he said will choose the Republican presidential candidate in 1980.

"If, after 1978 (when he seeks re-election to the Senate) there still is any chance I will be interested in it, I will decide in 1979," Baker said.

Baker, who said his prime interest now is re-election to the Senate, said he expected former President Gerald R. Ford and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan to again be contenders.

"I think it will be a real donnybrook but it will be good for the party. I think the race in 1980 is likely to be wide open in the state primaries," he said.

Baker was in Cincinnati as part of a tour meeting with and thanking contributors to previous Republican election efforts. Aides said this was part of his duties as minority leader.

Judge schedules diversion trial

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge on Wednesday set Jan. 18 for trial here of Robert P. Beasley, former vice-chairman of Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., on a 40-count indictment charging diversion to his own benefit of about $1 million from corporate funds.

GOP "is winning" but said television of the Watergate hearings "probably saved the Republican party because it showed the deep concern Republicans had for the country during that terrible, embarrassing time."

Baker predicted the coming Senate debate of the Panama Canal issue "will be the first time such a debate has been televised." He said he has joined Sen. Robert Byrd, D-Va., in proposing the matter to the Senate.

“How come there's a piece of cheese in my fish sandwich?”

When we invented our first Filet-O-Fish sandwich, we knew we'd made the best fish sandwich ever. The mild fish we'd searched the oceans for tasted just right, breaded and cooked up flaky and tender.

And our creamy, secret tartar sauce recipe gave it just the zest we wanted.

Why, we'd even discovered that it tasted most tempting on a steamed bun.

So, when we served it to the Chairman of the Board, we were amazed when he said, "You know, this does taste very good. But it'd taste incredible with a half a slice of cheese on it."

We knew he was wrong. But we tried it anyway. And guess what? He was right. That's why there's a half slice of cheese in our incredibly delicious Filet-O-Fish sandwich.

And, why our Chairman of the Board is Chairman of the Board.

We do it all for you™
